Release 'Time to Get it Right' from Michael Antony Austin

The title of the single from singer/songwriter Michael Antony Austin says it all: 'Time to Get It Right'....

Michael Antony Austin

The song's lyrics raise questions about current attitudes and are quite different to what Michael usually writes about. The title says it all: 'Time to Get It Right'. Michael sings: "There's a chance to part from the way we were, a chance to change, a chance to learn" and "If we hope to leave behind a better world, we need to make a difference now". The timely, heartfelt words are enhanced by a catchy melody you'll be sure to be humming long after it's done! 'Time to Get it Right' will be released on October 27th, 2023 as a single.

Michael Antony Austin talks about the song's background:

"I'd been listening quite a bit to Johnny Clegg & Savuka and the original demo had much more of an African inspired groove, some of which is still in the song, although now it's much more of a Folk Rock thing. I'm not really a political writer - I never wanted to be Bob Dylan as much as I greatly admire him as a songwriter.

It always feels like we (humanity) are on the cusp of great change, but we never seem to be able to take that 'leap of faith' and make those changes happen to better ourselves. You don't need to stand on a soapbox and shout - a lot of people who do that just like the sound of their own voices. And when you really listen to what they're saying, their politics are often misguided. I hold firm that bigger change starts with the simple things. Like a kindness to a neighbour, or simply offering a stranger a helping hand..."
